

Welcome to the iPad!

What is an iPad? ... The iPad is not a laptop

There is no mouse or trackpad!
No tab keys or direction arrows
No CD drive or USB port

My definition is that a iPad is a Consumption Device, not a Production Device -Use it for reading, learning and entertainment not writing your 1st novel.

Which model iPad to buy?

- I recommend the 16 GB as you can change your music any time during sync. Only buy the 3G model if you plan on traveling a lot with your iPad where there is no WiFi connection. In other words, most of you should buy
 - only the base $499 unit.
- AT&T or Verizon is up to you!

You can take these 'screen shots' by holding down the Power button on top and the round button on the bottom - useful for capturing screen error messages or other oddities you want to share later the Genius Bar staff.

Larger helmet could guard against brain injury to troops

Updated 16h 28m ago By Gregg Zoroya, USA TODAY

The Army could reduce the risk of brain injury to soldiers simply by having them wear a size larger helmet containing slightly thicker padding, according to a study to be released today.

An eighth of an inch more in cushion could decrease the force of an impact to the skull by 24%, according to findings by researchers at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California.

Brain injury is a common occurrence in Afghanistan, and the Army wants to verify the findings and move toward possibly issuing larger helmets with the extra padding, Brig. Gen. Peter Fuller says.

Fuller, outgoing commander of the Army office that equips soldiers, said the results are encouraging and possibly worth fielding on a limited and experimental basis with a brigade of soldiers. He said more research and validation of the findings are necessary.

Last summer, battlefield doctors in Afghanistan diagnosed more than 300 servicemembers per month with concussions or mild traumatic brain injuries and smaller numbers of servicemembers with more moderate or severe head wounds.

Concussions are a common wound among troops knocked about inside armored vehicles or flung to the ground while on foot patrols by an explosion from a roadside bomb, or improvised explosive device (IED). The study's findings offer an answer drawn from equipment the Army already has, researchers say.

"This is what appears to be an off-the-shelf solution," says William Moss, a Lawrence Livermore physicist who co-authored the study.

Helmets normally weigh about 5½ pounds. A size larger headgear would add about 4 ounces, Moss says. The study, which was funded by the Pentagon's Joint IED Defeat Organization (JIEDDO) found that adding padding beyond an eighth of "Well," said Mr. Beresford, at length able to relieve his feelings, "what the—dickens, did you want to take a taxi for?"

"I was afraid I might be late and keep you waiting," said Tuppence gently.

"Afraid—you—might—be—late! Oh, Lord, I give it up!" said Mr. Beresford.

"And really and truly," continued Tuppence, opening her eyes very wide, "I haven't got anything smaller than a fivepound note."

"You did that part of it very well, old bean, but all the same the fellow wasn't taken in —not for a moment!"

"No," said Tuppence thoughtfully, "he didn't believe it. That's the curious part about speaking the truth. No one does believe it. I found that out this morning. Now let's go to lunch. How about the Savoy?"

Tommy grinned.

"How about the Ritz?"

"On second thoughts, I prefer the Piccadilly. It's nearer. We shan't have to take another taxi. Come along."

"Is this a new brand of humour? Or is your brain really unhinged?" inquired Tommy.

"Your last supposition is the correct one. I have come into money, and the shock has been too much for me! For that particular form of mental trouble an eminent physician recommends unlimited Hors d'oeuvre, Lobster a l'americane, Chicken Newberg, and Peche Melba! Let's go and get them!"

"Tuppence, old girl, what has really come over you?"

"Oh, unbelieving one!" Tuppence wrenched open her bag. "Look here, and
